Date	Comment
11/11	Dhruv schedules extra friday meeting with Ethan 11/19
11/17	Meeting cancelled, review in person 11/18
11/18	Outcome: Positive, promises made to review Networking and Patterns asynchronously
11/20	Galib communicates that he will commit a large amount of code, and does.
11/22	Ethan tells galib Mark would like to see him show up, and Ethan says they both put in a good word.
11/22	Ethan & galib discuss various confusions in the code, and issues from unfinished lab-time code.
11/23	Ethan tells Galib mark said he can still get the 2% if he shows up on the 25th.
11/25	Debugging disastrous issues with eclipse post-lab, all resolved sucessfully between Galib and Ethan
11/26	Lots of communication between Galib and Ethan to try and hit complete-by dates.
11/26	Galib realizes the iteration due date is Monday, not today, and apologies for being pushy.
11/27	Dhruv replies within 24 hours of questions asked to him, giving an update on what he's doing
11/28	Ethan notifies of failed attempts to fix critical issue with Move, and passes the torch. Galib takes it up.
11/29 6:00 AM	Galib notifies he fixed the blockers preventing testing of the AI.
11/29	Ethan checks in to see if the DCD was revised to account for class deletions.
11/29	Ethan posts about problems with building a runnable jar.
11/29	Dhruv solves the issue and posts the runnable jar for the demo.
11/29	Ethan comments on needing a different jar for iteration submission, asks about laptops for tomorrow.
11/29	Dhruv commits again to bringing a laptop, and says galib will as well for safety.